

75TH WORLD CONGRESS OF HOMEOPATHY
16-19 JUNE 2021 - ISTANBUL / TURKEY
Bridge between past and future

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

At this difficult time in many countries as a result of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, for participant safety and given various governmental actions in the light of the coronavirus threat, it has become clear that the 75th World Congress of Homeopathy cannot be held this June. We announce now that, after careful consideration, LMHI 2020 Organizing Committee and LMHI Executive Committee have decided with a common view, the 75th World Congress of Homeopathy will be postponed to 16 – 19 June 2021, Istanbul.

We understand that this might come as a big disappointment to our speakers, exhibitors and participants busy preparing for the event and looking forward to some wonderful days this summer in Turkey. However, we are pleased to be able to inform you that all the Keynote Speakers and Symposia Chairs have confirmed their participation for the new dates, and we can look forward to the excellent scientific program next year.

We saw a lot of enthusiasm for this event in the run up to the 15 March abstract deadline, and we are sorry you do not get a chance to present your submitted work this year. However, registrations will roll over to remain valid for the new dates and we eagerly await welcoming you to the 75th World Congress of Homeopathy next summer. We will soon be releasing your abstracts for editing to enable you to update them if you wish, and then we will be running again abstract review for acceptance of abstracts to the event. You will also be able to submit new abstract if you wish. All your current registration form data will be retained with the roll over, although you are also welcome to update it if you need to. Please continue to log in to your account with the same email and password to manage your registration details, and abstract if applicable.
