talks on Homoeopathy

Aude Sapere. Dare to be wise!

THE ENEMY TO HOMOEOPATHY IS WITHIN AND NOT FROM WITHOUT:

A dissertation on the Uses of the Indispensable
Reference Works in day-to-day practice.

[Note: Over the past few decades, there has been repeated outcry from homoeopaths all around the globe that governments are against us. Yes, if homoeopaths do not make use of the more useful and indispensable reference works viz., Lilienthal, Knerr, Yingling and/or Wilkinson's, it would amount to doing injustice to their patients. No doubt it will not be a wonder if such ignorant homoeopaths may, one day or the other, be penalised! This need offend no one. Our enemy is ignorance of the most useful reference book. अपना होमियोपति मत करो ।]

PREFACE

From the time of Dr. Hahnemann till the present day, homoeopathy has been enveloped into clouds of mysterious obscurities.

In this book, I have attempted to carefully sift the wheat from the chaff which encumbers too much our literature.

The teachings in the following pages are beyond everything on homoeopathy practice.

Dr. James Tyler Kent, in his Lesser Writings says, "Homoeopathy has not become popular because of defective books as well as because of defective use of books." Here, the question is what are the reference books that are indispensable and the best. They are:

1. The great Dr. Samuel Lillenthal's HOMOEOPATHIC THERAPEUTICS.
2. Wilkinson's MAT. MEDICA. (Not the entire ten volumes of Hering's GUIDING SYMPTOMS OF OUR MAT. MEDICA are useful. In this 10-volume book, under each remedy, symptoms given in the paras 'Mind' 'Tissues' and 'Stages of Life and Constitution' alone are useful. Therefore, I have taken out these and compiled it by giving the title WILKINSON'S MATERIA MEDICA.)
3. The great Dr. Calvin B. Knerr's REPERTORY.
4. Dr. William Boericke's MAT. MEDICA.
5. The great Dr. W. A. Yingling's ACCOUCHEUR'S EMERGENCY MANUAL.
6. Dr. J. T. Kent's REPERTORY.

Many homoeopaths object to the use of Lillenthal, because he gives only a few symptoms for each remedy under various diseases. These homoeopaths are under the illusion that we have to prescribe on totality-of-symptoms; so, they consider anger, irritability, restlessness, sleepless etc. etc. These practitioners forget to note that 'totality-of-symptoms' is to be read with Section 153 of the Organon which says that we have to prescribe on 'uncommon-rare-strange-peculiar symptoms.' Thus, it must always be said that we have to prescribe on 'totality of uncommon-rare-strange-peculiar' symptoms.

Dear readers, such "uncommon, rare-strange-peculiar symptoms" in any given case would be one, or, in rare cases, at the most, two only. Lilienthal contains such 'uncommon-rare-strange-peculiar' symptoms alone and thus, and, therefore, it is only a few lines in each remedy under various diseases!

More than ninety per cent of cases can be cured by the use of one or more of the six reference books listed on the previous page. However, ninety-nine per cent of practitioners do not have a copy of Lilienthal, Knerr, Yingling and/or Wilkinson. If all homoeopaths use these books in their day-to-day practice, we can easily close down more than seventy per cent of allopathy hospitals all over the world.

Actual cases cured by referring to the above reference works are given below and upon reading these cases, any one would realise it is imperative to buy and use them.

(A) Cases treated and cured with the help of Lilienthal:

Case: A middle-aged man was suffering from loss of voice for a few years; along with this, he also had another complaint. Whenever he touched any metallic object he would feel electric shock and so was always wearing gloves; would avoid steel cot or metallic bucket etc. In Lilienthal (page 39), under the chapter Aphonia, twelve remedies are described. Under the remedy Sulphur, we find the words "excite animal electricity". This agreed with the symptoms of the patient. Sulphur 1M, single dose cured both aphonia and electric shock like sensations.

Case: The mother of an eleven-year-old boy brought his son, said to be suffering from worms. He was having frequent spasmodic movement of arms and his features were violent. In allopathy, they gave double the adult dose of santonine, all in vain. A homoeopath gave Cina-30 (to be given daily morning) and Graphites-30 (daily evening) for the boy's another complaint—skin eruption on his left forearm with gluey discharge. The mother said that even after giving these two medicines for one month there had been no relief. I was noting down on the case sheet without interrupting her.

[Section 84 of the Organon is as important as Section 153 and 213. A case well taken is half-cured. Ignorance of Section

84 means 50% failure in practice. That Section reads thus: "He (the patient) details the history of his sufferings; those about him tell what they heard him complain of, how he has behaved and what they have noticed in him . . . The practitioner writes down accurately all that the patient and his friends have told him. Keeping silence himself, he allows them to say all they have to say, and refrains from interrupting them. Every interruption breaks the train of thought of the narrator, and all he would have said at first does not again occur to them in precisely the same manner after that."]

Dear reader, write it on the wall. "Keeping silence himself, the practitioner allows the patient to say all that they have to say, and refrains from interrupting them."

After a pause, the mother concluded, "Doctor, ever since the onset of this worm complaint six months ago, he is often complaining of vertigo and headache. What is it due to, doctor?"

I read all the thirty-four remedies in the chapter WORM AFFECTIONS in the mega reference work Lilienthal. Both 'vertigo' and 'headache' were found together under one remedy only viz., Cicuta Virosa. I gave one dose in the 1M Potency. He was completely cured (both skin and spasmodic violent movement of limbs.) Thanks to Lilienthal! Cina is not the only one remedy for worms!

Case: A case of colic. This woman complained of agonizing cramp like pain in abdomen. Many times, she screamed with acute pain accompanied by vomiting and with greenish diarrhoeic stool. She consulted various allopaths and homoeopaths but no one could cure her. In Lilienthal, I turned to the chapter 'Colic' and read all the remedies given therein. Under one remedy only, viz., Cuprum met. I found the words "lack of reaction" and with one single dose of this remedy, the patient got total relief.

Without Lilienthal, the above cases could not have been cured!

(B) Actual cases cured by referring to another gigantic work, Dr. Calvin B. Knerr's Repertory are given below:

Case: A patient suffering from malaria for more than six months was treated in vain by allopaths and homoeopaths. During consultation with me, he ended up saying, "Doctor, I get the chill-heat-fever syndrome daily in the evening. However, ever since the onset of this malaria, I get pain in my chest in the morning; what is it due to, doctor?"

A symptom occurring during the evening chill-fever-sweat syndrome belongs to the pathology of malaria; hence common. However, symptom occurring during apyrexia does not belong to malaria, but belongs to the patient; hence 'uncommon' and so, more valuable.

KNERR'S REPERTORY—FEVER, intermittent,
apyrexia: pain in chest:
Sabad.

Sabadilla cured the above six-month old case of malaria. Our salutes to the unparalleled Dr. Knerr.
Which other Repertory gives symptoms of malaria during apyrexia?

Dr Calvin Brobst KNERR (1847-1940)

Once I happened to go to a homoeo clinic where a couple was practising, husband M.D. (Hom.)
and his wife BHMS. I just asked them what remedy they would give to a pregnant woman, where, at her fourth month, the scan report showed the child had a growth of two months only (and the attending lady doctor suggested termination of pregnancy). The husband said he would try Sepia because it is his 'favorite' remedy for women's complaints. I turned to his wife who said that she preferred Pulsatilla being her 'favorite' remedy for emergencies of pregnancy! I told them that I had cured three such cases with one single dose of Secale cornutum - 10M and showed them the following in Calvin B. Knerr's Repertory.

PREGNANCY, foetus, arrests
development: Sec.

They do not have a copy of Knerr and the husband said that he does not believe in Knerr!?!?? Every homoeopath is practising “apna” (his own) homoeopathy. Awake from your slumber! The hour is late!

Case: A student of ours from Bangalore reports as to how he had cured almost instantaneously the toothache of his wife at midnight, without the need to rush to a doctor at odd hour: “Dear Dr. Krishnaamurthy, Thank you for introducing me to homoeopathy and the wonderful book Dr. Calvin B. Knerr’s Repertory. One night, my wife got up and complained of toothache. I did not own a vehicle to go to a doctor. I opened Knerr and went through the remedies described under ‘Toothache’. My eyes stopped at the following:

TOOTHACHE—at night only, compelling one to rise and walk about: Mag-c.

“Yes, she was walking up and down the room. I have almost all homoeo remedies. I gave her only one pill of the remedy Magnesia carb. Moments later the pain stopped and she went to bed and slept.

“I have come across many homoeopaths—both at lower and at the top levels and the shocking thing is none of them is having nor using Knerr’s Repertory. How can our system become popular? God alone can save homoeopathy."

Case: A child was admitted in an allopathic hospital and doctors told that it was a case of meningitis. I called aside the mother and asked her to tell me from the beginning. She said that while giving food, the child suddenly started crying and when she lifted it to pacify it, it was stretching its hands as if to take hold of her face.

Knerr's Repertory: MIND AND DISPOSITION; Weeping, sudden, with clutching of hair, or nurse's face (cerebro-spinal meningitis): Dig.

Digitalis-1M was given—one dose. After a day, the child was discharged.

We are yet to come across a failure with the use of Lilienthal, Knerr, Boericke, Yingling, Wilkinson's and/or Kent.

We do not recommend any other reference book. Without the six books mentioned on page 3, one cannot hope for success in practice.

(C) Now, actual cases cured by referring to Boericke:

Case: Mr. N., 57 years, reported: "Doctor, daily morning I get headache; in the afternoon, after lunch I have distension of abdomen, gastric troubles. In the night I get terrible pain in the leg..."

Repertory is of no use in this case. We have to learn by rote certain rare-strange-peculiar symptoms. The case is very simple. His symptom is to be classified as follows:

“Aggravation of head symptoms in the morning; abdomen in the afternoon and legs in the night.”

Under the remedy Ammonium mur. (Boericke's Mat. Med.) the following is specified:

Its periods of aggravations are peculiarly divided as to the bodily region affected; thus the head and chest symptoms are worse mornings, the abdominal in the afternoon, the pains in the limbs, the skin and febrile symptoms, in the evenings.

One single dose of Amm-mur-10M cured him.

Case: A primipara (first pregnancy woman) was having morning sickness from her third month until the sixth month. [In the case of patients who are far away and cannot visit you in person, you may ask them to WRITE DOWN THEIR SYMPTOMS/COMPLAINTS ON PAPER IN THEIR OWN HANDWRITING and send it to you.] As the above patient was in a faraway place, she was asked to write down in her own handwriting her symptoms as if she is telling her friend about her complaints. Her letter is given below.

"After full meals, when get up to wash hands I would vomit all the items of food that I had taken, one by one in the reverse order. In addition, I feel foetus is turning and kicking causing pain in a particular spot. When a heavy truck goes on the road making a thunder noise, I feel that noise hitting in that place where the kick of the child causes pain."

Case repertorisation:

Boericke's Repertory (last chapter)
MODALITIES (p.970)—AGGRAVATION:

[After taking food as she gets up, she vomits; for this 'jar' was taken.]

Jar — Ars., Bell., Berb. v., Bry., Cic., Crot., Glon., Ign., Nux-v., Spig., Ther.

Noise — Acon., Asar., Bell., Bar.,
Calad., Cham., Cinch., Cocc.,
Coff., Colch., Ferr., Glon., Ign., Lyc., Mag. m., Med., Nux-m., Nux-
v., Onos., Phos., Solan-lyc., Spig., Tar-h., Ther.

Six remedies viz., Bell., Glon., Ign., Nux-v., Spig., and Ther. are common to the above two lists. All these six remedies were studied in Boericke's Mat. Medica.

In the remedy Theridion in Boericke's Mat. Medica, I found the following:

Sensitive to noise; it penetrates the body... Noises seem to strike on painful spots over the body.

Theridion-30, single dose completely stopped the vomiting and pain < by noise. The reader need not ask why 30th potency. Any potency would work. Correct remedy selection—the similimum, is more important that its potency.

(D) Cases treated by the use of The Accoucheur's Emergency Manual by the great Dr. W. A. Yingling

Case: A pregnant woman in a village went to a town for delivery. The doctors in a nursing home after examining her, declined to admit her because instead of descending, the uterus was in the upward position. She was then taken to the Govt. hospital. Upon examining her, even they said that a major surgery had to be done and since the senior surgeon was not available, they would not admit her. She came home weeping and came to me. I turned to Yingling. On page 229, we find the following:

Upward, uterus seems to go: Cimic.

Just one single dose of Cimicifuga (Actaea racemosa)-10M was given. Within minutes, she felt some movements in her abdomen, the uterus coming down to its correct position and developed labor pains: so, was rushed to the hospital. This time, upon examining her, the attending doctor found everything to be normal and so admitted her and it was a caesarean-free delivery! Does the reader need any further or better justification for having a copy of Yingling?

Dr. W. A. Yingling, M.D.

Dr. Yingling's Emergency Manual is for medical emergencies in abnormal conditions of parturition, those which occur directly before, during, or after labor or abortion. It does not deal with those conditions wherein the physician has plenty of time for consideration, as in many ailments during gestation, and those following some days after delivery. It is strictly an emergency manual, yet containing all the symptoms of the rubrics treated of, and many indication of remedies not usually considered critical, as it is impossible to tell beforehand what symptoms may be the keynotes in the emergency hour to either save life or prevent undue suffering. Strictly speaking, only those conditions endangering life would be emergency conditions, but as any undue suffering or abnormality may be the precursor or direct cause of the emergency condition, indications of remedies covering these must, of necessity, are included in the book The Accoucheur's Emergency Manual. It contains both repertory and materia medica.

Case: A pregnant woman was shedding tears. Upon inquiry, her mother told me that the next day was delivery date and the doctors said that she was very weak and so would not be able to develop labor pain; therefore, caesarean alone was to be done.

In Yingling (page 231), we find the following:

LABOR—Weak, patient too weak to develop normal pains: Caul., Mur-ac.

Muriatic acid has symptoms of weakness more than Caulophyllum. A characteristic symptom in the remedy Muriatic acid is, "Mouth and anus chiefly affected." [See Boericke's Materia Medica.]

I asked the patient if she was having soreness or any complaint in mouth and she replied in the affirmative. I further asked if she had similar complaint in her anus and she confirmed this. [You can put questions to the patient after selecting a few remedies through the Repertory, to decide one remedy—the similimum.]

Within minutes of taking a dose of Muriatic Acid-10M, she developed labor pains; was rushed to hospital. After half-an-hour, it was a normal and safe delivery. Homoeopathy is an exact and accurate method. Precision and versatility is the culture of Homoeopathy. Homoeopathy will ever remain supreme among pharmacologically oriented system of therapeutics!

(E) Cases treated with the use of Wilkinson's Mat. Medica.

Case: A patient with chronic headache, after trying various doctors, ultimately came to me. After finishing the history of his seven years' pain in head, he ended up saying: "Doctor, if you or anyone can cure me of this terrible headache, I won't mind even giving away half of my property (worth three millions) to that doctor." Doctors of all other systems would simply ignore this statement of the patient. If a patient is ready to pay 1.5 million... I thought over this. I took this as a challenge to homoeopathy. I asked him to first pay me ten thousand rupees and also two weeks' time

To a professor of English I gave a copy of Wilkinson's Mat. Medica and paying him the ten thousand rupees, requested him to do the job of reading the lines given only under the chapter 'Mind' in all the remedies (and this too would take a few days, working for three hours daily) and to tell me if he finds anything equivalent to the above said statement of the headache patient. The professor underlined and pointed out the following lines in the remedy Stillingia (under 'Mind' in Wilkinson's).

"Deplorably downhearted; suffering extreme torture from bone pains."

Stillingia 1000, one single dose cured the patient and he paid me another ten thousand rupees. Precision and versatility is the culture of Homoeopathy. After this case, I cured two more patients with Stillingia both of whom said the above words (ready to give his entire wealth to the doctor who cures him). Diligence and knowledge of English language, both to the core, are required to practise homoeopathy. The above two cases would illustrate the reader how rich, exact and accurate (and complete) are our materia medicas.

Case: I once happened to go to a homoeo clinic where a couple were practising, husband M.D. (Hom.) and his wife BHMS. I just asked them what remedy they would give to a pregnant woman, where at her fourth month, a scan report showed the child had a growth of two months only (and the attending lady doctor suggested termination of pregnancy). The husband said he would try Sepia because it is his 'favourite' remedy for women's complaints. I turned to his wife who said that she preferred Pulsatilla being her 'favourite' remedy for emergencies of pregnancy! I told them that I had cured three such cases with one single dose of Secale cornutum - 10M and showed them the following in Calvin B. Knerr's Repertory.

PREGNANCY, foetus, arrests
development: Sec.

The above doctors do not have a copy of Knerr and the husband said that he does not believe in Knerr!

Case: Boiling tea was accidentally splashed on the face of a woman and she lost her eyesight. Allopathy doctors told that nothing could be done. Single dose of Carbolic acid-10M restored her eyesight in thirty minutes time. [See Calvin B. Knerr's Repertory—GENERALITIES—Injuries, burns, extensive: Carbol. ac.]

Case: What is the remedy (in one single dose) that would have saved the rape victim Nirbhaya of Delhi?

Symptoms in this case are:

Ichorrhaemia, pyaemia, septicaemia: Acon., Arn., Ars., Calend., Canth., Carbol-ac., Chin-arom., Chinin-mur. or sulph., Crot-h., Lach., Nit-ac., Rhus, Veratr-vir., Zinc.

—for the haemorrhages: Crot-h., Ergot., Kreos., Nitr-ac., Mur-ac., Fer-mur., Tarent-c., Tereb.

—for the adynamia: Mosch., Camph., Carb. v., Crot-h, Lach., Phos., Sil., Verat-alb., Verat-vir., Sulph.

We find the above on page 912 in the HOMOEOPATHIC THERAPEUTICS by Dr. Samuel Lilienthal.

Crotalus horridus alone is common to the above three lists, and one dose in 10M potency would have saved Nirbhaya.

[An important note on Crotalus horridus-10M: From the above, one can easily infer that diseases of blood that threaten the life of the patient can be completely relieved by this remedy—Septicaemia, leucaemia, infective hepatitis, hepatitis b-virus, haemophilia (bleeders.). A patient came from Bellary and was admitted in a leading hospital in Bangalore in i. c. unit. Since the allopathy doctors in that hospital did not object to any external application, one drop of CrotaIus-hor-10M was put on his forearm. After twenty-four hours, he was shifted to the wards and the second day he was discharged. He came in an ambulance and upon discharge travelled by bus to Mantralaya.] Homoeo medicines act by coming in contact with the skin. If you buy in tincture, put one drop on the centre of forearm. If you have the remedy in pills, just put 3-5 pills in 1-3 teaspoonful of water and apply this solution as above. No need to rub. Once only. Whether given orally or applied externally, both will have the same effect, provided your remedy selection is correct!

In emergencies, nature speaks plainly. The more danger to life, the clearer the symptoms speak and quicker our remedy acts.

In homoeopathy practice, everything is practical and practical only. There are no theories. For learning swimming, first you get into the water. So also, for learning car driving, you are made to sit on the wheel and drive in the traffic. Unless and until a teacher points out actual cases, you may not understand what is in the materia medica or repertory.

MEDICAL EMERGENCIES

Aethusa cynapium: "Before this remedy was known, a certain class of cases of cholera of infants, and vomiting and diarrhea in children, all resulted fatally, and because there was no remedy that looked like such serious cases. Death is stamped on the face from the beginning, and if there are any remedies in the book that save life, this is one of them." [See Kent's Lectures on Mat. Medica.] You are called in to see a child of five months, in the early morning between 2 a.m. to 5 a.m. Convulsion, moaning, thumbs drawn towards palm, eyes drawn downward. Without a dose of Aethusa, that child would die by 6 a.m.

What is the remedy for the last stage of cholera? It is Hydrocyanic acid.

Cases that end fatally:

In encephalitis of children, single sharp, shrill screams while sleeping. Raises hand to back of ears while it screams—Apis. [Lilienthal]

Sudden crying of the child, with clutching of hair or nurse's face: Digitalis. (Cerebro-spinal meningitis)—See Knerr's Repertory—MIND AND DISPOSITION.

Case: A child was in the i. c. unit for treatment of basilar meningitis. I called aside the mother and asked as to what happened.

She said that the child during sleep, started crying, jumped and fell on the floor. Then she rushed to the hospital.

In Lilienthal (page 709) in the chapter Basilar Meningitis, among other things, we find the following in the remedy Zincum met.:

. . . cries out, starts and jumps during sleep.

Zinc-met. cured the child and next day discharged.

DROP THE SYMPTOM IN LILIENTHAL AND YOU GET THE REMEDY IN NO TIME. It is less than the time needed for switching on your computer software.

Preventive for epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis: Zinc. (See Knerr's.)

You must keep the remedies similar to the above emergencies at your fingertip!

Case: A chronic renal failure patient with fever and ascites or, for that matter, any bedridden patient goes into coma at 2-30 p.m. He is hospitalised and in a few days dies. What is the remedy?

See Kent's Repertory: GENERALI-TIES—Afternoon: 2-30 p.m.

"Homoeopathy has not become popular because of defective books as well as because of defective use of books." Thus writes Dr. Kent in his book Lesser Writings.

What are the most useful books in day-to-day practice? The one book that tops the list is Lilienthal. Dr. Samuel Lilienthal is our senior. Do not call any other homoeopath in India your senior. Next in the list is the Accoucheur's Emergency Manual By Dr. W. A. Yingling.

A case treated with the help of WILKINSON'S MATERIA MEDICA is given below:

A case of spondylitis. A woman of thirty-two, pointing to both shoulder tips with her index fingers, said, "Doctor, I have pain here and doctors said that it is due to spondylitis. (The suffix '-itis' means inflammation.)

In Wilkinson's Mat. Medica, in the remedy Belladonna we find the following:

The inflammation . . . runs in radii as it extends to adjacent parts.

Belladonna-10M single dose cured her.

Dr. Constantine Hering proved Lachesis and he died with the symptoms of Lachesis because he took it in low potency for proving. What is the remedy that would have saved him?

“When Lachesis has been given in too low potency, and the patient has been poisoned with the crude medicine, this remedy (Ammonium carb.) then becomes an antidote, used in a high potency, because of the similarity in its action.”
[See Kent’s Lectures on Hom. Mat. Medica--Amm-carb.]

Snake poisons were proved by taking one single pill in the 3rd or 6th potency. Beware! Never give metals, poisonous chemicals and virulent poisons below the 10M potency and do not give repeatedly. Many ignorant homoeopaths argue that Boericke recommends 6th or 30th potency at the end of many remedies. However, in the Preface to Ninth Edition he writes, “The dosage needs some apology. It is, of course, suggestive only; more often to be wholly disregarded.”

Almost all homoeopaths have a copy of Boericke’s Mat. Medica. Has anyone ever used it wisely is a question mark. [In some cases, we have to make combined use of two reference works, as the next case would show.]

Case: A 32-year old woman was treated for terminal cancer; after repeated chemotherapy, she got frequent and profuse leucorrhoeal discharge and consequent dehydration. Doctors told that she would live for another few months only.

When she was in my clinic, she told, "Doctor, people of my village do not have any regard because they say that after all, I am going to die in a few months. Cure me and I want to live for more years and tell my villagers, "Look, I got cured."

Again, I read all the remedies in the chapter Leucorrhoea in Lilienthal and I could confirm Hamamelis because of the following symptoms therein: ". . . Profuse fluor albus, constituting a drain on the system as severe as a bleeding..."

I read Hamamelis in both Wilkinson's and Boericke. The following in the para "Head" in Boericke caught my attention:

"Wants the respect due to me shown."

Hamamelis-10M, single dose, cured her and she lived a healthy life for many years.

Case: A victim of burns from feet to hip was admitted in government hospital and Cantharis etc. gave no relief. For superficial burns, there is no need for urgent treatment, and therefore, the house surgeon did not call the senior doctor who would come in the evening rounds only.

The patient was heard saying, "No senior doctor or specialist has come to see and treat me." He asked to be taken to a private nursing home and there too just the house surgeon attended on him. Here also the patient was repeating the same thing that no senior doctor was attending on him immediately.

As far as the patient is concerned, immediate attention of a senior doctor is necessary.

Boericke's Repertory—GENERALITIES, INJURIES—Burns, scalds—(21 remedies are listed.) I read all these remedies in Boericke's Mat. Medica (the first para, 'Mind' and 'Skin') and the words "Wants the respect due to me shown" in Hamamelis caught my attention.

What a serious patient needs is immediate attention by a senior doctor and according to the patient, he did not have that. I gave him Hamamelis-1000, single dose and asked him to get voluntary discharge and go home.

After three days, the patient was cured almost completely and when he went to the doctors who had seen him earlier, refused to believe that he was the one whom they saw a few days ago. Wounds heal without leaving a scar only in homoeopathy.

The short cut to selection of the remedy is Lilienthal and the short cut to Lilienthal is the chapter MELANCHOLIA therein.

Dr. Hahnemann advises that without prescribing on mind symptoms a cure is not possible (Section 213 of the Organon.) 'Anger' 'restlessness' etc. are 'common' symptoms of mind. When Section 213 is read with Section 153, we infer that we have to prescribe on 'uncommon mind symptoms.' Such symptoms in any given case would be one only, or, at the most two. Our actual cured cases alone will make the reader to realise the value of Lilienthal.

Case: A renal failure patient under dialysis and waiting for kidney transplant was under our treatment. We could not find his remedy. (There is no guarantee for kidney transplant, because after a few years, many patients die when the donor kidney stops functioning.) After transplant, he was heard saying, "Now I feel as if I am released from prison . . . as if I have taken a rebirth." This he said because he was then freed from the torturing and exhausting bi-weekly dialysis, taking rest, body becoming weak etc. This mental picture of the patient should at once bring to our mind the following words:

...desire to be released from what seems to be a perpetual burden of sorrow...

This symptom is found in the remedy Ignatia in Lilienthal under the chapter 'Melancholia' (page 698.) Ignatia-10M, single dose, was given and his other kidney started functioning normally.

Case: A seventy-year old carpenter was under my treatment for skin complaint. During one of his visits, his 48-year old son accompanied him. The latter was coughing with chest congestion etc. The carpenter told his son; "Why don't you also take treatment from this doctor? See how much I have improved, whereas the earlier doctors whom I consulted could not do anything in my case." To this, the son said, "The new house where I had gone has no raasi." ['Raasi' in Tamil means luck). In other words, the person feels that everything was going wrong ever since he started living in a particular house. Therefore, that house has no raasi. Alternatively, a person feels that ever since he bought and started using a car, nothing went right. He attributes his sufferings, failures, difficulties etc. to that vehicle. I hope readers understand this. The son continued, "Even the new work place where I am going daily is not raasi (or has no good luck.)"] The other word to describe 'raasi' would be 'sentimental' or 'luck'. The carpenter's son was not ready to take treatment from me only because he felt that the house and the work place is the cause of his respiratory complaints.

Kent's Repertory: MIND: Reproaches others (blaming the house and work place.): 24 remedies are listed here.

Sentimental: 25 remedies

Ars., Calc-p., Chin., Ign., Lach., Lyc., nux-v. and Staph. are found common to both the lists.

Drop the nickel in the slot and you get the remedy! Among pharmacologically-oriented system of therapeutics the shortcut to cure patients with one single dose or a few doses, is homoeopathy; the shortcut to homoeo practice is Lilienthal; again, the shortcut to Lilienthal is the Chapter MELANCHOLIA (p.693 to 703) therein. Jai Lilienthal!

For 'mind symptoms' the chapter MELANCHOLIA in Lilienthal is by far the best.

I read all the above eight remedies and confirmed Staphisagria, because of the following lines under that remedy in the chapter Melancholia.

Inwardly gnawing grief and anger, he looks at everything from the darkest side . . . disinclination to work and think; dread of the future and dread of being constantly pursued . . . sorrowfulness ending in paralysis of the intellect..." (See Lilienthal page 701).

Case: A woman of forty-two was having a large calculus in her urinary bladder. She said that allopathic doctors advised surgery as the only way but she declined to undergo it. She continued that she had already undergone two caesarean sections and one appendicectomy; after each one of these surgeries, her general health ran down. Therefore, she could not afford deterioration of health any further with another surgery and she had to safeguard her health for the remaining period of her life. Under the remedy Nux vomica (Lilienthal, Melancholia, page 700), we find the following:

“Afraid he might not have enough to live on . . .”

Nux vomica-1M, one single dose was given in the evening. Not only did her general health improve, but also the came out in pieces. (Patient is still under treatment.)

Case: A chronic renal failure patient came to me. [In most cases, the ‘uncommon’ symptom is told by the patient at the end of the consultation, or, in some cases, after you have made the prescription! In yet a few cases, during the second or subsequent consultations!]

In the end, the patient said, “Doctor, my sons say that I am sick and so I should not ride bicycle, go out and do our business. They say they will do everything and ask me to sit at home. As my children, they should only tell that I am all right and would recover soon. But, instead of encouraging for speedy recovery, they have branded me as a permanent and incurable patient.”

This patient feels that his sons are letting him down. What one requires from his relatives is not money nor help but moral support. In this case, the patient feels that it is completely missing. This symptom we find in two remedies. They are:

“... a feeling of moral deficiency...” – Kalibrom.

“... despondency, sadness, moral depression and relaxation...” – Tarentula hisp. [See Lilienthal's, the chapter Melancholia— page 698 and 702]

Tarentula hispania 10M - single dose cured him.

Case: A woman of fifty-five, was under my treatment for three months for sinusitis with little relief. She lives thirteen kilometers away and she works in a school, which is near my clinic. Before going to school, she would come to me once a month, take medicine and go to school. Seeing no relief in spite of three visits, I told her that a certain acupressure doctor would come and give just 3-minute treatment once only and for this, she need not pay any fees and I assured total relief. Since the acupressure doctor comes to my clinic on Sundays only, I asked her to come on a Sunday. To this, she replied, “I have to come all the way... from ... (her residence.)” During the earlier three visits, she would come to me in the morning before going to her school that is near to my clinic. Sunday is holiday for school and she feels it an ordeal to come for acupressure treatment all... the... way from her residence, thirteen kilometers away. It is hesitation. I told her that she need not pay any fees for the one-time acupressure treatment and one hundred per cent cure was assured. Therefore, travelling thirteen kilometres would not be a crime. However, to do this she has hesitation. Before we show the reader how to classify this as a 'mind symptom', let us see two more cases.

Case: A lady allopathic doctor was learning homoeopathy from me. She consulted me for her own complaints; we could not readily find her remedy. Once she said, "Doctor, can you give one-dose treatment for my son? Since birth he is having perennial cold; now he is five years and almost every week he has to take drugs." I told her that she must bring her son at least once and I would cure him completely. Bringing her son once (and I am not going to charge her since she is my student) is not an ordeal or something immoral. To this she replied, "For this I have to... bring him all the way from my home" (which is just ten kilometers away.) She hesitates for this small thing of bringing the boy once only to me and for which the boy is going to get total relief permanently. Only if you actually listen to the patient's reply in person may you understand this. Let me explain and elaborate on this. Suppose you are asked by your teacher to murder a certain person. What would be your reaction? Immediately you would reply as under:

“Sir, I . . . have to. . . ” (The sentence would be incomplete. Because you have hesitation in doing this job as it would prick your conscience.) In the above said two cases, for merely travelling ten kilometres, they have a lot of hesitation as if I am asking them to do an immoral act. In other words, they are over conscientious of a trivial matter. The apt term would be “Conscientious scruples.” This symptom is in the remedy Arsenicum album. [See Lilienthal’s Homoeopathic Therapeutics, page 694.] Let us repeat, that in most cases, uncommon mind symptom may be one only, and the computer-software or ‘remedy finders’ are of no use. One single dose of Arsenicum Album-10M completely cured the above two patients.

Case: This is a cancer patient and after the consultation was over, I asked my fees of six thousand rupees. To this he replied, “Money... is...” (The sentence was incomplete and hesitation was as if they are asked to do some immoral act.) [He should say that either he has no money or that he would try to borrow from relatives. However, he does neither.] Ars. Alb-10M, one single, dose cured him.

The above cases would illustrate the meaning and interpretation of mind symptoms of patients. In some cases, the repertory or software is not useful and you have to learn by rote these uncommon mind symptoms. Cases quoted above would convince the reader that if a practitioner can memorise the symptoms of various remedies given in the chapter MELANCHOLIA in Lilienthal, he would be able to select the remedy in more than fifty per cent of cases, that too at the very first attempt. We now hope what the reader understands when we write that the short cut to Lilienthal is the chapter MELANCHOLIA therein. Jai Lilienthal!

It would be no exaggeration to say thus: Let no one practise homoeopathy who does not make use of Lilienthal. It is most disappointing to find that no one talks about Dr. Lilienthal's work, be it in seminar papers, monthly meetings or articles in journals.

Said Charles Gatchell in a review of HOMOEOPATHIC THERAPEUTICS, "... it is an extraordinarily useful book and those who add it to their library will never feel regret..."

In a review, Samuel A. Jones said about Lilienthal's as under: "For the fresh graduate this book will be invaluable... to the older one who says he has no use of this book, we have nothing to say. He is a good one to avoid when well, and to dread when ill." Three more authors who have correctly written mind symptoms that are useful are Wilkinson, Knerr and Boericke.

The value of 'mind symptoms' in Boericke's Mat. Medica can be understood by the following two cases:

Case: A patient with weeping eczema said, "Doctor, I am not taking the treatment to live long. However, I have an aged daughter to be married off and a son who is looking out for a job. Who would come forward to marry my daughter, if I have this weeping eczema? Only because of that, I want to be cured. Before I die, I want to settle things in my family—my daughter getting married and son getting a job. Then I can die peacefully." Under the homoeopathic remedy Petroleum (Boericke's Materia Medica), we find the following:

Feels that death is near, and must hurry to settle affairs.

Now, this sentence fits in approximately with the remarks made by the above eczema patient. Petroleum-10M, single dose, cured him.

Case: A peptic ulcer patient's condition worsened day by day and allopathic antacids gave only temporary relief. At the height of his suffering (hunger pain with gastralgia, temporarily relieved by eating) he was heard saying, "I think that my end is approaching; I must call the lawyer to write the will; this hotel of mine should go to my wife; money deposited in the bank is for my son. My widowed sister who has been living with me for several years and helping me should take the house that I bought recently." This mind picture fits with the remarks made by the patient in the last case. One single dose of Petroleum-10M cured this patient as well.

We do not prescribe on names of disease or pathology but on 'uncommon' symptoms having no connection with pathology. The above two cases would show the reader that (a) one and the same remedy may be called for in different persons with different diseases; also, (b) different persons suffering from one and the same disease may need different remedies.

There are no theories in homoeopathy. It is practical and practical only.

I asked the audience of about seventy-five, (most of them BHMS or M.D.) to raise the hands of those who have a copy of Yingling and/or Lilienthal; only a handful of practitioners responded and they have rarely used it.

What difference does it make between an unqualified practitioner and a B.H.M.S./M.D.

if he does not have knowledge of Lilienthal and Yingling? Merely uttering the words "miasm" "constitution" 'totality-of-symptoms' will not make you wiser. The wisest things are use of Lilienthal, Yingling, Wilkinson, Knerr and, of course, Boericke/Kent. No one knows how to use Kent. 'Wonderful cures are made by selecting the remedy on generals' so writes Kent in the Preface to his repertory. To explain this, another book is to be written.

No one can talk on medical emergencies who has not successfully treated a minimum of fifteen emergency cases with the use of Yingling/Lilienthal/Calvin B. Knerr.

For malignant jaundice, haemorrhagic jaundice or jaundice of infants, a practitioner should keep the following in his fingertips.

Malignant icterus: Acon., Ars., Ars. iod., Chin., Chin. mur., Chel., Crotal., Elaps, Dig., Lach., Picr. ac., Vip.

Haemorrhagic jaundice: Chel., Crotal., Phos.

Jaundice in the new-born: Bry., Cham., Ign., Nitr-ac., Merc., Nux v., Puls., Sulph.

Jaundice of infants generally passes off by itself in a few days; a few doses of Acon. removes it quickly; for genuine jaundice, from the unhealthy state of the mother's milk, study Chin., Merc. or Bov., Bry., Cham., Nux v., Sulph., etc.

For terminal cancer, or, for that matter, any terminal illness, Lilienthal is our guru.

Neither repertories nor materia medicas are sufficient to find the remedy quickly; therefore, lateral thinking is needed. And the outcome is Lilienthal. Practitioners repeatedly talk of 'totality-of-symptoms'. However, they forget to remember Section 153 of the Organon, which says that we have to prescribe 'uncommon symptoms' only. Therefore, let us hereafter always say "totality-of-uncommon symptoms". Such uncommon symptoms (on which alone we have to make our prescription) may be one or, in rare cases, two symptoms only. Lilienthal contains uncommon symptoms only, and therefore, it is only a few lines under each remedy in various diseases.

We must use reference books by authors who have worked in hundred-bedded hospitals where homoeopathy medicines alone are used and where even acute emergencies are treated with homoeo remedies alone. For that matter, therefore, we have to ignore all Indian authors.

"Before the First World War, there were in the United States 56 purely homoeopathic general hospitals with 35 to 1,400 beds each, nine hospitals for women (inclusive of midwifery) with 30 to 100s bed each, besides nine children's hospitals with purely homoeopathic treatment. The Hahnemann College in Philadelphia with hospitals attached and its extensive polyclinic was, in the year 1922, the most important homoeopathic educational institution in the world. Even in those days, its buildings were valued at several million dollars. For practical training, the Hahnemann College offered advantages, which were scarcely to be equalled at that time in any European University. The large number of cases in the hospitals and polyclinics (more than 50,000 patients and 6,000 accident cases were treated every year) afforded the professors abundant material for their clinical instruction. The college possessed a special institution for midwifery, directly attached to it, and allowing the students many opportunities for observing obstetrical cases. In addition, numerous confinements were attended to amongst the poor people in the town and these also served for instruction." [See Richard Haehl, SAMUEL HAHNEMANN; HIS LIFE AND WORKS.]

The reader should remember that Yingling, Lilienthal, Knerr, Hereing etc. worked in these hospitals.

Are homoeopaths at the top [whether it is govt. recognized homoeo college or the Central Council of Homoeopathy] prepared to make efforts for constructing at least one single hospital where homoeopathic medicines alone would be given?

Before concluding, we would also like to mention that in his paper Medical Literature (published in the TRANSACTIONS; OF THE 43rd SESSION OF THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF HOMOEOPATHY) (Wisconsin, 17.6.1890) Lilienthal very aptly concludes thus: "If you cannot find the remedy by studying the various books, drop a nickel in the slot and you will find the desired symptom in Lilienthal." To illustrate the superiority of Lilienthal's work, the reader may study again the two cases mentioned on page 5.

DROP THE SYMPTOM IN LILIENTHAL AND YOU GET THE REMEDY IN NO TIME!

Lilienthal's work is an outstanding and laborious effort. He is a pioneer in the field of homeopathic therapeutics. It is almost a complete work and an easy reference book listing various disorders alphabetically with remedy reference. This therapeutic manual offers a wide array of ailments and clinical conditions with thorough and reliable remedy differentiation. This magnificent treatise will serve as an invaluable guide to effective remedy application by comparing the characteristics of each remedy given under every pathological condition. This book will enable students and practitioners to enhance their art of prescription. Equally good is Dr. Yingling's work.

The first and last disqualification for any homoeopath is not making use of Lilienthal in his day to day practice!

Jayerkar, bensation method, Hegal method . . . What are they? Throw them out! They are the measles and mumps of homoeopathy community.

Epidemics are relieved in an hour's time.

SWINE FLU PATIENTS DIE OF PNEUMONIA. In Lilienthal, under the chapter Pneumonia we find the words "epidemic pneumonia" in two remedies only viz., Ferr-met. and Merc-sol. MERC-SOL agrees with symptoms of swine flu.

Patients who had come to me after being tested positive for swine flu were given ONLY ONE SINGLE PILL of the homoeo medicine Merc-sol-1M, and in just an hour all their symptoms disappeared and after a week when they tested, the result was negative. (Rate of success: 99%).

One of the best shortcuts to homoeopathic practice (to select the remedy—the similimum) is Dr. Samuel Lilienthal's Homoeopathic Therapeutics. (Drop the symptom in Lilienthal and you get the remedy!)

The Central Council of Homoeopathy has issued a circular around the year 2011 that homoeopathic doctors should not treat swine flu. What a folly, innocence and ignorance? Without Lilienthal, such blunders would continue to happen and not only the central council but also homoeopathy would be blind.

Conclusion: After reading this report, it is hoped that homoeo college principals would buy and keep, at least twenty copies of the reference works (listed on page 3 of this book) in their libraries and professors spend at least a few months to teach the use of the above books.

The epidemic (and currently becoming endemic) dengue fever is totally relieved by taking just one dose of Bryonia-200. Dryness of lips, thirst for large quantities of water, desire to be at complete rest . . . What other remedy one can think of for dengue other than Bryonia. Even those in hospitals admitted for dengue, got relief in an hour's and asked for voluntary discharge. When tested after ten days, platelets count came to normal. We have been successfully treating hundreds of dengue cases with one pill of Bryonia-1000X, given once only.

To know what 'uncommon' symptoms of a disease are, a practitioner should know what 'common' symptoms are. For this, the reader is recommended the British Encyclopaedia of Medical Practice, 12 volumes +1 index volume] This is also an invaluable help for diagnosis and differential diagnosis, not only for homoeopaths but practitioners of all medical systems, be it Yoga, Bach Remedies practice, Pranic healing etc. The price is Rs.15,000=00 including postage. (Available with the author of this book.)

Tailpiece: The one cured case I can never forget is that of a girl of six years where cancer specialists said that she would not live for more than six months. First, the parents brought their daughter to me for skin complaint on her left thigh. I refer skin cases to a skin specialist only for purposes of diagnosis and report. When this case went to him, he referred to an oncologist who confirmed it is carcinoma and said that the patient may live for another six months only; the parents consulted two more oncologists who too gave the same opinion.

In rare cases, as a matter of exception, when I am not able to pinpoint the remedy for a patient, I copy and give the patient the remedies with their symptoms given under their disease in Lilienthal and ask them to underline whatever symptoms are applicable to the patient.

In this case, too, I showed the remedies from Lilienthal, given under the chapter Carcinoma and Tumour and asked them to underscore portions applicable. The parents confirmed the following found under the remedy Muriatic Acid in the chapter Tumour in Lilienthal:

(Lilienthal, page 1054) Carcinoma linguae, when the edges of the ulcers and surrounding parts are of a blue color

Muriatic Acid-10M, one single dose, cured the patient. While writing this paper, the age of the girl now is eighteen years and she is in good health. For all homoeo practitioners Lilienthal is indispensable and a must.

With the homoeo software developed by the author of this book (in the form of Excel sheet), we have made a major breakthrough in remedy section. You may even call this as the ultimate method of remedy selection. If you send money order Rs.4800=00 we would send it by E-mail with instructions. An indispensable tool for any aspiring homoeopath.

MEDICAL EMERGENCIES ARISING FROM TRAUMATIC CAUSES WHERE LIFE IS IN DANGER.

With correct homoeo treatment, the victim of trauma should be back to work within twenty-four hours (excepting fractures)! That is our experience!

For all accident cases every homoeopath from the top to the lower level—all give Arnica and Rhus tox. and they do not learn any further.

Following are some of the remedies and their uses, you must learn by rote:

Arnica is for blow or knocks on single part of the body. It reduces pain, removes swelling and stops bleeding.

But, if a person falls down while trying to get into a running jeep from behind, and receives a blow on the occipital region, he becomes unconscious, hospitalised and comes home. After a few weeks, he gets hemiplegia. This person needs Phosphorus.

Sudden sit down and the coccyx is injured. Alternatively, while going up or downstairs the foot slips and a sudden sit down injures coccyx. The remedy is Hypericum. Injuries and concussion of spinal cord also calls for this remedy.

Cicuta Virosa: This remedy is of excellent use in railroad accidents. A person falls down rolling from a running train or speeding vehicle, or rolls down the stairs; or, during accident, falls down rolling inside a bus or car. The spinal cord is spun (twisted) and he has pain all over the body. This case needs Cicuta Virosa and no amount of Arnica would be of any help.

However, again, in railroad accident, the patient is hospitalised and as a sequel, his kidneys are not functioning. In this case, Wilkinson's Materia Medica comes to our help. Under the remedy Eupatorium purpureum, we find the following:

"Through the renal plexus, this remedy has a specific and special action upon the kidneys. . ."

Homoeopathy is practical and practical only and there is no place for any theory, whims or imagination, etc.

अपना होमियोपति मत कीजियेगा ।

Among pharmacologically-oriented systems of therapeutics, homoeopathy will ever remain supreme to cure patients with the least number of medicines/doses. For example, we have cured lakhs of chikungunya patients completely and permanently with one single dose of the homoeo medicine called Polyporus officinale-200.

Why is Polyporus officinale (Boletus Laricis) almost a specific for chikungunya disease? With crippling joint pains many chikungunya victims were virtually crawling to go to the toilet etc. Their face was gloomy.

Knerr's Repertory—Mind—Gloomy, ague, in: Bol-la (Polyporus officinale).

70 to 90 PER CENT OF CAESAREAN
SURGERIES CAN BE AVOIDED, BY ONE SINGLE DOSE

The foetus (baby in the uterus of the pregnant mother) 1-3 weeks prior to delivery date (so long remaining in upright position) turns upside down, and the uterus descends down the head of the foetus is fixed in the pelvis and 1-3 weeks later, at the delivery time the mouth of the uterus dilates and the child comes out. Even after the full term of ten months if the child does not turn upside down, or turns half-way and lies crosswise, or having turned upside down, does not descend further down, the attending lady doctor would say 'head floating' or is in incorrect position and so performs caesarean surgery.) 70 to 90 per cent of caesarean surgeries at the present day are conducted solely for this reason. At this time if the patient is given a dose of the remedy Pulsatilla-10M, in the next twenty-four hours it would be a natural delivery.

In the reference book The Accoucheur's Emergency Manual by Dr. W. A. Yingling, M.D., of U.S.A. we find the following: "Abnormal presentations may be righted if Pulsatilla is given before the membranes are ruptured or the presenting parts are firmly engaged..."

In a maternity hospital, Pollachi Road, Dharapuram, Tamilnadu, by using Pulsatilla and other remedies there has not been even a single caesarean for the past several years and the lady doctor in-charge has put up a board "Caesarean-free" Clinic. The Dharapuram Lions Club has given her a certificate testifying this.

Dr. (Mrs.) K. Rajeswari, M.B.B.S., D.G.O Obstetrician and Gynecologist writes: "Dear Dr. Krishnamurthy, I tried Pulsatilla for two patients; resulted in normal delivery.

(a) A woman with third pregnancy, with history of two previous normal deliveries came for check up. The position of the baby was oblique in the last month; and the chances of cesarean delivery, discussed with them. When re-examined, the baby was crosswise and the due date was only ten days, I gave her one single dose of Pulsatilla – 10M and after ten days, she came with pains, with head in the lower pelvis; delivered normally without any complications.

(b) Another woman with first pregnancy, with normal position of the baby, but I was not satisfied with head descent and gave a dose of Pulsatilla 10M. She developed pains, head descent was little better, but not to my expectations. I gave sufficient time, and when she screamed, Bach remedy Cherry Plum was given every 10-15 minutes. It was a normal delivery.

Complaints in the new-born can be successfully treated with the 2-page repertory in the chapter THE BABY given at the end of Yingling's Emergency Manual.

In breathlessness, the child puts hands on heart—Laurocerasus

Retention of urine in the newborn:
Aconite

Retention of urine in the mother after delivery: Causticum.

What are the remedies for expelling the dead foetus?

See Calvin B. Knerr's Repertory: FEMALE GENITALIA - pregnancy, foetus: expels dead: canth., cimex., puls.

Cantharis is preferable as it has more symptoms in sexual organs.

We are yet to come across a failure with the use of the following books:

Lilienthal, Knerr, Boericke, Yingling, Wilkinson's and Kent.

We do not recommend any other reference book. Without the above six works one cannot hope for success in practice.

INDULGING IN TERMINOLOGIES SUCH AS
'TOTALITY-OF-SYMPTOMS'
'MIASMATIC PRESCRIBING'
'CONSTITUTIONAL TREATMENT' etc.
WON'T MAKE YOU A SUCCESSFUL PRACTITIONER.

Judicious use of HOMOEOPATHIC THERAPEUTICS by Dr. Samuel Lilienthal, THE ACCOUCHEUR'S EMERGENCY MANUAL by Dr. W. A. Yingling, Dr. Calvin B. Knerr's REPERTORY and Wilkinson's MATERIA MEDICA alone can make you No. 1 prescriber.

Removal of totality-of-uncommon-symptoms means removal of cause, including psora, sycosis and/or syphilis.

CASES THAT SUDDENLY BECOME EMERGENCIES AND ADMITTED IN THE I. C. UNIT.

Case: From a small town, an old man of seventy-five, was brought to the metro, Chennai. The attending doctors declared that his kidney was not functioning, blood pressure and blood sugar was high.

I called aside the attendant (his eldest son) and asked him as to what had happened. He narrated that the patient was otherwise healthy, no history of diabetes or hypertension. The previous day he had tripped and fallen down the staircase and started passing diarrhoeic stool. A local allopathic doctor was summoned. He examined the patient and said that the condition was serious and so advised to take the patient to a big city hospital with all medical facilities. The attendant further said that the patient was telling his sons and daughters that his death was approaching and had asked them to send telegram to all of his relatives so that he may see them before dying.

Practising homoeopaths should carefully note here that THE NEARER WE GO TOWARDS PATHOLOGY, the farer we go away from homoeopathy. The more and more we go away from pathology and go NEARER to patient, we are towards homoeopathy remedy selection—the similimum. Renal failure, diabetes, cardiac complaints etc. are physical symptoms.

The patient was telling that he should see his relatives before he dies*; this mind symptom points to the remedy Petroleum. ["Feels that death is near, and must hurry to settle affairs." See Petroleum in William Boericke's Mat. Med.] [*In South India, the wish of many average people during the last days of death in old age would be that they should see all his relations/friends before dying.]

In the i. c. unit, we cannot administer medicine orally; therefore, Petroleum-10M was bought in 5ml tincture and I told the son of the patient to apply just one drop of the remedy once only anywhere on the skin of the patient, the convenient place being the center of the forearm. (Homoeo medicines do act by coming in contact with the skin and the effects are as good as given orally. If you have the remedy only in pills, put 5-10 pills in a tablespoonful of water and apply the solution on the forearm.) Next morning of applying the medicine on the skin, all parameters came to normal and so, the patient was shifted to the wards. Two days later, the condition of the patient was normal and, therefore, he was discharged. A person brought in ambulance, returned home on the fourth day by travelling by a bus! That is homoeopathy! Homoeopathy would ever remain supreme among pharmacologically oriented system of therapeutics!

In majority cases of sudden alarming emergencies and unconscious patients, the homoeopath should ask those in the house as to what had happened immediately before the patient became serious. Another case would illustrate the point for the need to inquire as to what happened before the patient was admitted in the i. c. unit.

Case: I was called in to see a child in the i. c. unit; it was basilar meningitis. I called aside the mother and asked her as to what had happened. She said that during sleep, the child started crying, jumped and fell on the floor and so she rushed the child to the hospital.

In Lilienthal (page 709) I went through all the remedies given in the chapter Basilar Meningitis; among other things, I found the following in the remedy Zincum met.:

. . . cries out, starts and jumps during sleep.

This exactly fitted in with the version of the mother. A dose of Zinc-met.-10M cured the child and next day got discharged.

Tailpiece: Has any homoeopath ever cured patients in the i. c. unit with the use of Lilienthal, Knerr's Repertory Wilkinson's and/or Boericke? If so, he is competent to practise.

Dr. J. T. Kent remarks in his Lesser Writings: "Homoeopathy has not become popular because of defective books as well as because of defective use of books." The author would place Dr. Hahnemann, the founder of homoeopathy, only next to Lilienthal. Of course, it is Dr. Hahnemann who had discovered our science; Dr. Lilienthal nurtured and gave full shape to the use of our remedies.

Dear reader, do not insult Lilienthal by calling any homoeopath in India as your senior. Dr. Lilienthal alone can be our senior and would always remain the senior most!

"Removal of totality-of-uncommon-symptoms means removal of the cause." Thus says Dr. Kent in his Lesser Writings. The word 'cause' here, of course, automatically includes psora, sycosis, and syphilis or, for that matter, any other miasm.

CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDIES

What is constitutional treatment? This is another misunderstood term. When should this term "Constitution" should come to your mind?

More particularly, in chronic patients when no doctor is able to cure the patient and you are not able to find the remedy through repertories, timely help is given by the great Dr. Calvin B. Knerr.

Equivalent to Lilienthal, on the other hand, comes our Knerr one of the most indispensable chapter is No.47 in Dr. Calvin B. Knerr's repertory.

For chronic diseases where other doctors fail and you are in a dilemma, the gold mine is in on page 1184 to 1194 in Knerr's repertory (Chapter 47 Stages of Life and Constitution.)

How and When to Use this chapter.

(A) If a patient is getting a chronic disease repeatedly.

or

(B) If more than one member in the family is having one and the same complaint (other than syphilitic complaints - diabetes, cardiac complaints, allergies, mind affections, still birth, abortion, suicidal disposition sciatica, neuralgia) then you may straightaway come to this chapter.

Equivalent to chapter 37 in Knerr's Repertory is the chapter, "CONSTITUTION, Age, Sex and Temperament" in Lilienthal (page 233-235).
